Against the backdrop of the Ukraine Recovery Conference, the Sustainable Inclusive Recovery session will explore how to help communities recover while respecting decentralized governance and fostering community capacity to meet local needs.

What is an inclusive recovery?

How can the Government of Ukraine ensure that the recovery works for everyone?

What constitutes a social and economic Build Back Better approach?

How does Ukraine ensure equity in terms of the amount of assistance and prioritization?

What is a sustainable recovery?

How can Ukraine ensure that Build Back Better is realized and that revitalization considers the impact of choices made today on future generations?

Speakers and participants will include representatives of the Government of Ukraine, local government, local governance associations and civil society organizations working to establish effective cooperation for the efficient recovery and development of local communities and territories of Ukraine.

The session will feature Mr. Oleksandr Kubrakov, Deputy Prime Minister for Restoration of Ukraine and Minister for Communities, Territories and Infrastructure Development of Ukraine, on his ministry's approach to working with communities on their recovery.
